

New York, April 30, 1813

Dear Sir (Isaac Cooper),

I sincerely condole with you at the untimely death of your brother Richard, but the unseeing ways of judgement we must submit to. When I last had the pleasure to see him, I think in September last, he gave me full assurance that a small bond I have of his should be charged this spring. If this is now convenient, I receive the amount Dr.$1092.17 with interest from the w^m 1/2. If not convenient, the years interest to 11 March as requested, being $76.25. If you place it to my credit in the Albany Bank to be by them transferred to the Bank of New York in this city. The payment is ay safe and expeditious.

With Esteem

Dear Sir

Your Obl ??
