

Dear Sir!

I have but one minutes time to give you an answer to the line you wrote me by Mr. Rich. You will therefore excuse me, for not being as particular as I should wish...

With respect to Robert Horr's affairs I have not received one cent of him and the notes you mentioned. I have commenced a suit and it is not yet determined. The notes against (illegible) I gave a receipt to my brother Alexander and to him I have long since accounted. Sayer's money is ready although I have not received it of him. I can not see necessity of foreclosing the mortgage against (illegible)ly as the land is selling as rapidly as you might naturally expect at the present time. There are likewise several sales of which you have not got the mortgages. I shall be able shortly to give you further information on this part of the lease = next.

I remain your friend until the last,
Andrew McCollom
